

DEBT AGREEMENT EASES WORLD PARLEY TENSION

LONDON CELEBRATES 'DEATH' OF BALDWIN PLEDGE TO U.S.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent
London, June 15 (INS)—The World Economic Conference called into less turbulent seas today on the heels of the British debt adjustment, but there are still breakers ahead.

The tension has merely been eased by the agreement under which Britain pays $10,000,000 in silver on her $75,000,000 debt installment.

There is no question that the British press and public regard the Baldwin debt agreement as dead, and expect the forthcoming Washington conversations to result either in cancellation or a final settlement on the Lausanne dimension-dollar basis.

London celebrated the 'debt victory' far into the night. Extra editions of newspapers were snapped up by the crowds and restaurant orchestras played.

Brother Can You Spare a Dime?

Few Americans here believe Congress will accept a dime-on-a-dollar debt settlement, but for Londoners the facts are buried under such headlines as that appearing in the London Daily Express:

"First sail in coffin of the had dollar bargain."

When the world conference re-opened today Cecilia Da Matta of Portugal, the first speaker, congratulated our president, Mr. Mac-

Donald, and the President of the United States "on the debt adjustment."

America's silver program, which previously had found few expressions of approval, received the unqualified support of China.

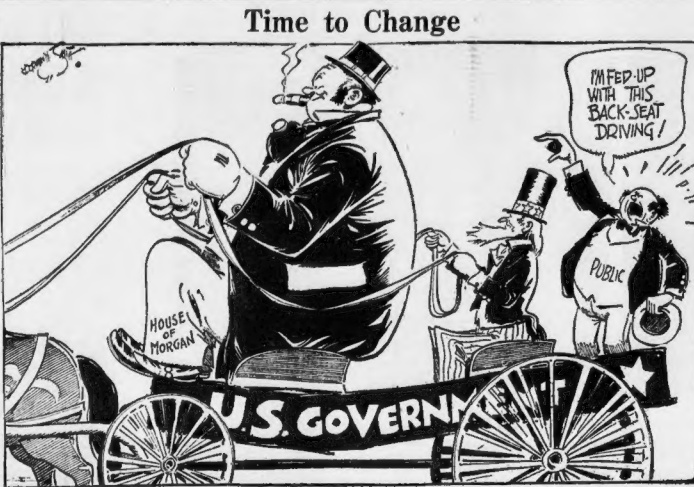

T. V. Soong, the Chinese spokesman, said he hoped the conference would seek to raise and stabilize silver prices, thus increasing the purchasing power of vast populations in China and India.

Premier R. B. Bennett of Canada said he agreed to an easy money policy, and that Canada subscribed wholeheartedly to what Neville Chamberlain said yesterday.

This means, he added, that his government would endeavor to maintain the value of its dollar on the London and New York markets when these two money capitals decide on the ratio for the stabilization of their currencies.

Bennett, turning to the important wheat problem, declared the accumulated stock of 30,000,000 bushels can only be dealt with by international co-operation involving "possible acreage reduction agreements."

U. S., FRANCE IN COMPROMISE TO SEAT COX

Stabilizing of Dollar Said to Be American Price for Chairman

London, June 15 (AP)—Possibility of a compromise between America and France whereby the United States would get the chairmanship of the vital monetary committee in exchange for a temporary de facto stabilization of the dollar was understood in well-informed world-economic conference quarters to be on the books as the world economic conference recessed this noon.

This was an outgrowth of a conference between Secretary of State Hull, leader of the American delegation, and Finance Minister Georges Bonnet of France, until last night himself a candidate for the chairmanship.

It was understood Bonnet previously had conferred with James P. Warburg, an American delegate.

BONNET CONFERS COX

James M. Cox was advanced by the American group for the leadership of the monetary committee. The French had insisted a representative of a gold standard country be named.

Mr. Bonnet also conferred with Mr. Cox and afterward the Frenchman declared:

"We have met Governor Cox and we love him."

The French appeared mollified by the prospect for stabilization of the dollar within 48 hours.

Election of Mr. Cox would give the United States a victory in its first major conflict.

Red Oak, Ia., June 15 (AP)—Banner Shay, Jr., of Red Oak is a man of courage and quick action. A swarm of bees located themselves in a tree in his yard, he armed himself with a head and face covering, added long gloves and went forth to speed the swarm on its way.

In the midst of his efforts a limb broke and the bees went crawling to the ground. The queen bee went straight at Shay and buzzed up his pants leg. Some of the rest of the swarm followed.

Then Shay demonstrated quick action. He loosened the top of his trousers. The queen bee, seeing danger, dashed her way out and her retinue followed.

Baltimore, June 15 (AP)—Edward J. Kimball, city fireman, was exonerated of murder by a coroner's jury which termed the slaying of his wife "justifiable homicide."

Mrs. Kimball was slain by her husband and Clayton O. Gentry, another fireman, was wounded when Kimball was summoned Monday night from his work by a call that a man was with his wife at his home.

ATLANTIC RACES FOR U. S. SOIL

Nome, Alaska, June 15 (AP)—Heeded for Alaska the second time in three days on a 200-mile lap of his world flight, Jimmie Mattern, round-the-world flier, was expected to land at Nome today.

The weather was less favorable over the Bering Sea, observers said, than two days ago, but no such severe winds faced him as those over the Sea of Okhotsk, which sent him back to Khabarovsk, Siberia, on Tuesday. A stormy wind blew here last night and a sea-mile wind at St. Paul Island.

At the earliest, considering the takeoff from Khabarovsk, at 2 p. m. Wednesday (E. S. T.), he should be in the vicinity of western Alaska by 7 a. m. (E. S. T.). This allowed 10 hours for a flight from Post and Harold Gatty did two years ago in 16½ hours, but Mattern was expected to face more severe winds.

No word was heard of the progress of Mattern's flight up the Asiatic coast over the Sea of Okhotsk, across the Kamchatka peninsula and then striking north-east over water to Nome, but no word was heard from Post and Gatty either, until their arrival.

COSTLY RUGS GIVEN CHURCH FOR MISS HUTCHIN'S BRIDAL

SPANISH PRINCE PLANS SWISS WEDDING

Alfonso's Heir and the Bride-to-Be Pose for Talkie Cameras

Lausanne, June 15 (AP)—The Prince of Asturias, son of former King Alfonso of Spain, and Benarita Edelmira Sampedro, daughter of a Cuban merchant, have chosen the Catholic church in Cuchy, Switzerland, as the place for their wedding ceremony, but they have not set the date, which probably will be late in June.

"I value my love for my fiancée more than anything else," said the prince, who, on Tuesday, renounced his royal rights in favor of a brother.

He made the remark successively in Spanish, English, and French while he and Benarita Sampedro posed for sound pictures. The fiancée's sister softly whistled "Who Stole My Heart Away?" during the proceedings.

Benarita Sampedro, addressing an eventual girl audience, said: "I hope you will some day be as happy as I."

The Prince a few days ago told an emissary from his father that his decision to marry the Cuban girl was irrevocable.

Paris, June 15 (AP)—Former King Alfonso of Spain returned to Paris today as displaced as ever, his friends said, with the projected marriage of his son, the Prince of Asturias, to Benarita Edelmira Sampedro, a Cuban girl not of equal rank.

RENO'S BAND STRIKES UP 'HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN'

MRS. ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT

MRS. JOHN BORDEN

SHELL TAKE CURE BY LONG DISTANCE For a time it looked as though the bottom had fallen out of the Reno divorce trade. Hotels and night clubs were collecting only dust and cobwebs. Then Big Names came to town. They were a bonanza for the honkey-tonk. Biggest name of all is that of the President's

BUT SHELL BE THERE TO HEAR NEWS son. He is at Lake Tahoe, 50 miles away, so his wife, the former Elizabeth Donner, may sue without leaving her paternal Philadelphia. However, Mrs. John Borden, also a Big Name because she is the wife (it won't be long now!) of Chicago's famed explorer and statesman, is on the scene in person.

AGAIN CUPID'S SAD AND RENO'S GLAD

Reno, Nev., June 15 (AP)—Back in the headlines again, Reno is turning and happy.

Months of aggravating quiet, during which the six weeks divorce mill nearly slowed to a standstill, apparently have ended. Celebrities, including the President's son, Elliott, an English lord and a member of one of America's first families, walk her sun-baked streets, while nearly every train brings its quota of the socially prominent.

Hands blaze the whole night through in clubs whose bars and dance floors were all but deserted all of last winter, and, worse yet, throughout the spring and early summer. England's Lord Cowley was the first of the new crop of divorcees. Now, hurried almost to the desert sun, he is a veteran in the colony, conspicuous everywhere by the brightly-colored sweater he wears.

Next came Miriam V. Hostetter Young, heiress to the Hostetter fortune. Although divorced this week from Charles Fuller Young, Pittsburgh and New York broker, she lingers on, as does Eugene A. Bowen, her rejected suitor, who is making an unwilling stay of 30 days in the county jail for beating Mrs. Young.

Biding his time at Lake Tahoe, 55 miles from Reno, is young Roosevelt. He is seen here only on the infrequent occasions he comes to town to confer with his attorney about his contemplated divorce next month from the former Elizabeth Donner, Philadelphia heiress. Others here include Mrs. William K. Dick, whose first husband was John Jacob Astor and, later, Mr. Dick. Well, divorce may be a tragedy and a social menace elsewhere, but in Reno it's cash in the till. Ring up another one! (International News Photo.)

Barbara Huton

Paris, June 15 (AP)—A gift of costly rugs in the past spread throughout the church of the old Russian embassy in Paris is only one of the details that will make the marriage next Thursday of Barbara Huton, American Woolworth store millions heiress, and Prince Alexis Nikolaevich of Greece one of the most colorful and expensive in the history of the church.

A corps of waiters known as the "Grooms" is decorating the church for several days. The bride and groom have those preparations over the heads of the bride and bridegroom through the entire ceremony.

THEY AID FOR CHURCH A boy will precede the bride as she enters the church, carrying an icon of the Virgin. The couple will exchange rings then, holding hands with priest, will walk their way around the crucifix table carrying large candles in gold candelabra, and followed by the attendants.

The church authorities disclosed that this wedding was most opportune for Russian refugees in Paris, having difficulty in meeting the expense of keeping up the church. The wedding congregation is to be limited to ticket holders.

FEARED ARREST IN SUIT

She has asked the Norfolk County Court to set aside a divorce granted her husband in December, 1932. The divorced woman insists she feared to appear in court—just because the police had a warrant for her arrest for non-payment of a hotel bill.

Clark Gable Is Told to Quit Work

Los Angeles, June 15 (AP)—Clark Gable, film actor, is in the East Coast, where he is said to be as well as work and so play, his physician, Dr. Franklin Thorpe, said today in announcing that the screen star had been ordered to rest for several weeks.

Gable has been placed on a diet for at least four weeks and has been ordered to forget pictures, to rest and get plenty of sunshine.

Mary Curley to Wed Quinn in Rome, City Hall Hears

At the rate the members of the "curry" cabinet were being dismissed, it was evident that some highly important question was being discussed.

The cabinet met only when Mayor Curley leaves the city. The cabinet does all, knows all, tells all, but only when the mayor is absent. Out of the babel of voices the following interesting dialogue was salvaged:

"I'm telling you, it wouldn't surprise me if it was Mary Curley's engagement was announced when they got back from Europe."

"You mean to that fellow who is traveling with the Curry party?"

"That's the fellow. He's been traveling with Mayor Curley and his family for the last two years."

And everywhere that Mary went, J. Walter Quinn was sure to go. A courier rushed into the cabinet room and whispered something to the chairman. The chairman whispered something to the spokesman. The spokesman whispered something to the only accredited member of the press who is permitted to attend the cabinet meetings the following information which you can take grain of salt or not, as you like.

"It has just been learned," the spokesman whispered, "that the Rev. James F. Kelley, pastor of the Lady of Lourdes Church, Jamaica Plain, who is also a member of the Curry cabinet, has married Mary Curley to J. Walter Quinn, a mighty fine boy, in Rome. Don't tell anybody I told you."

The reported engagement has been noted on numerous occasions—but who can tell?

STONE IN COURT DESPITE NOTE

Judge Arthur P. Stone of the East Cambridge district court whose fate will be decided by the Massachusetts Senate next week, appeared at the courthouse for an hour today, spending most of the time in his private office.

The House yesterday voted for his removal 230 to 75. The resolution was introduced as a result of Judge Stone's activities as administrator of the estate of Dr. Isaac Clark of Cambridge.

Since placed under fire in the Legislature, Judge Stone has continued to occupy his place on the bench but has handled chiefly civil cases.

The move for disbarment developed quietly even during the House debate that consumed nearly three hours. Formal setting of the Bar Association was expected any time today.

At the same time, friends of the justice organized their forces for a drive on the Senate.

NURSE IN SUIT, FIGHTS DIVORCE

Mrs. Dorothy B. Arnold of Commonwealth Ave., Brookline, did not appear in Norfolk Probate Court to contest her husband's suit for divorce because she feared that she would be arrested on a charge of evading a hotel bill, for which police were looking for her.

Since that time, the bill says, she has been arrested, and the police are on probation with the proviso that she make restitution.

This became known today when Attorney James E. Moriarty of 1 Beacon St., revealed the filing of a petition in Norfolk court to vacate the divorce decree nisi given to Clarence A. Arnold on December 13, 1932.

The decree was to have become absolute on Tuesday, but the petition to vacate it was filed in sufficient time to forestall the final action.

Mrs. Arnold, a trained nurse, active in Boston social circles, has a $20,000 annuity of affection suit pending in Norfolk Superior Court against Maude M. Jones of Franklin.

In this suit, pending for the past two years, Mrs. Arnold claims that the Jones woman stole the affections of her husband.

"She is now at liberty," the petition states, "and fear of arrest having been dispelled from her mind, she comes forth seeking to vacate the decree nisi entered by the court on December 13, 1932."

Mrs. Arnold, she claims, was engaged to a Yale graduate, a close friend of Alty-Gen. Joseph E. Warren, when she decided to become a nurse in order to break the engagement.

This was done, she claims, so that she could marry Arnold.

FRANCE TRIES TO PUT OTTO ON THRONE

New York, June 15 (AP)—Private cable messages received here today said that Prince Stjepan of Serbia has arrived in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, as the confidential agent of the French government to win over King Alexander to a solution of the Croatian question in such a manner as to make possible the restoration of the Austro-Hungarian dual monarchy.

The source of this information is close to Archduke Otto of Hapsburg, claimant of the throne of both Austria and Hungary.

Vienna-Rome Wires Are Cut

Vienna, June 15 (AP)—The newspaper Blunde reported today from Sommering, Austria, that unidentified persons cut the cable connecting Vienna with Italy. Two previous attempts to sever communication between the two points were made in recent weeks.

Private messages received in New York today said Italy is supporting a move for restoration of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy. It is held, would cause the current Nazi agitation in Austria for union of that country with Germany, which Italy opposes.

Man, 72, Fights When Called 'Grandpa'

Chicago, June 15 (AP)—There was a lot of things Robert E. Lee, 72, Los Angeles, will stand for. But he will not let anyone call him "grandpa." He is a "grandpa" only in his own mind. "I'll have to fine you $20 on a charge of assault and battery," the court said.

"It's a pleasure to pay a fine on a man like you," the judge replied.

HER WEDDING WAS QUIET

Washington, June 15 (AP)—Smuggling of arms and ammunition to Cuba by airplane from the United States was disclosed today in evidence seized by secret service operatives when they arrested Angel Rodriguez and his wife Sofia, in Augusta, Ga., on charges of passing counterfeit money.

W. H. Ryan, chief of the secret service, announced today that "sufficient evidence indicating conclusively this man has been engaged in smuggling arms and ammunition from Miami to Cuba by airplane" was found in the home of the couple.

Rodriguez and his wife were known in New York as Ralph Ryan and Sadie Ryan, she also was known as Sadie Waxman.

STATE DETECTIVES FACE BUCK GRILL

The capacity crowd of spectators was permitted to remain and hear the court's ruling was given.

Half a dozen state detectives face rapid cross-examination as the trial resumed.

The defense team was trained especially on the testimony of Detective John R. Stokes, who was credited with winning from Cyril Buck a story that involved his younger brother, Kenneth, as the central figure in the kidnapping that stirred Cape Cod last month.

NEDHAM TO BE CALLED

Detective Stokes also recovered $50,000 that was paid in ransom by Peggy's father.

Details of the search and Kenneth's father for the cache and connection with Kenneth's wife, Mrs. Molly Buck, are also in possession of Detective Stokes.

Confession Barred

The court ruling excluded that part of the confession that involved Cyril Buck.

SHIFT ATTACK

It is also planned to bring out in the confession that Kenneth was clothing owned by his brother when he went aboard the cruiser "Bob," the craft of William Lee, boat building partner of Peggy's father, and the scene of Peggy's murder to her father for $50,000 in ransom.

Exclusion of the Kenneth Luck confession caused Det.-Atty. Gen. Croley to shift his method of attack to the calling of State detectives today.

Before the objections of defense counsel and the blow they dealt the State case in winning the victory the little victim himself would ascend the witness stand today.

In view of the delay, it was indicated that Peggy may not be called until late tomorrow or early next week. It had not been decided today whether court would sit Saturday or not.

NO LOSS OF THRILLS

The crowd that storms the courtroom daily was not at a loss for thrills, however, as child testimony.

THIS IS LIFE

With the Mayor on the Trail of the Forgotten Man

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

Yesterday I received a copy of the volume published today which must be interesting to everyone who knows anything about Massachusetts and national politics—and that ought to be about entire population.

It is entitled "On the Trail of the Forgotten Man," is written by James H. Guilfoyle, a Boston newspaper man, and is published by the Peabody Master Printer, an organization with which is connected another well known Boston journalist, William Stanley Braithwaite, nationally known for his annual anthologies of modern American poetry.

It is a good book. I know it is a good book, because I wrote a brief introduction for it. Not that the introduction makes the book any better. It really didn't need an introduction. Everything I said was in the

On the Trail of the Forgotten Man is the story of the events leading up to the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidency, the story of the campaign, and the victory. Mr. Guilfoyle, who wrote it, had the exceptional opportunity of seeing the campaign, as he travelled with Mayor Curley in his speaking tour of 10,000 miles which took him into 23 Western states, in which he made 104 public addresses in the space of 30 days.

Fight of Mayor Told Again

The hero—if one may use that word about a book of political history—is Mayor Curley. It is his book, the story of his pre-convention endeavor to line Massachusetts up for Roosevelt, his seeming failure, and eventually his success. The book is frankly an Apologia—which in the old Latin sense of the word does not mean an apology but an explanation and a defense—for the part the mayor played in the election of the President, a statement of his deserts at the hands of the country and the President.

Being written by a good newspaper man, it has lots of interesting inside stories. It is the kind of book—like Al Smith's "Autobiography"—which ought to be used in education to supplement the dry and idealistic tones on politics as it exists on paper, on politics as it should be, instead of politics as it really is, a fascinating yet serious game, requiring every bit of courage, astuteness, ingenuity, initiative and power which a man possesses.

Ely's Speech Highlight of Convention

But although Mr. Curley is the protagonist of the story, Mr. Guilfoyle is eminently just in his treatment of others. His personality sketches of the leaders of Democratic politics in Massachusetts are, so far as I am able to judge, accurate, just and impartial. He is a good enough historian to realize that Mr. Curley's great speech nominating Alfred E. Smith was the oratorical climax of the convention and to print it in full. He is a good enough historian to end his book with a chapter on the accomplishments of the Roosevelt administration—without a mention of Mr. Curley. He does not overemphasize the incident of the ambassadorship to Poland. And when he has to deal with Curley's mistakes of judgment or taste or temper, he deals with them, nothing extenuating. For an admittedly partisan political book that is a good deal.

I wish myself that in his climax he had played up to his title rather more. To me the big chapter on the Mayor Curley in western trip. It is an Odyssey in itself. That chapter is well proportioned in length to the rest of the book, but since Mr. Guilfoyle was able—like Vergil—to set down "all that he saw and part of which he was," I think the chapter could have been given more human interest and color. The incident of the Mayor's trip was a great opportunity not entirely taken advantage of. But probably the plan of the book did not allow it.

As one reads, one feels more than ever on what little things destinies depend. Destinies of persons and of nations. It was, apparently, accidental that in the summer of 1921 Mr. Curley met Mr. Roosevelt on a train and at Mr. Roosevelt's suggestion was invited to the Colonel House luncheon, where Mr. Curley made the remarks which lined him up henceforth in the Roosevelt camp. In retrospect, it seems likely that that good Democrat could have beaten Mr. Hoover last fall. It is even possible, though not entirely probable, that Governor Smith could have been elected. But it was only by the closest shave that Mr. Roosevelt secured the nomination. Since that is true, little things like that on their importance. The Roosevelt movement in Massachusetts probably did more to slow up the Smith bandwagon than any other single factor. If Mr. Curley had not been at the convention things might have gone very differently. It was obvious, just before McAdoo switched, that Farley and Howe, their initial impetus, given by almost 700 votes, had died out. There were signs of slipping. They were on the verge of sliding backward. The part Mr. Curley played in the critical moment is to be found in Guilfoyle's book.

Settle New Rum Problem in New Way

But this book is more than a "Lest We Forget." It is a record of the events leading up to the most revolutionary "new deal" since Andrew Jackson drove John Quincy Adams and the last of the Federalists out of office just about a century ago. We like to kid ourselves along in the belief that the present revolutionary measures for government control are only temporary, that when the emergency passes we shall go back to the time-hallowed status quo of Republican individualism or Jeffersonian individualism.

That is, of course, nonsense. When repeal finally comes at the end of the present year, we shall not go back to the status quo of 1918. We have to settle a new liquor problem and in a new way. Similarly, when this present emergency is over, we shall have what is, to all intents and purposes, a new Constitution, the nature of which we cannot clearly see at present and the modus operandi of which is no less uncertain.

We have undergone a revolution as peaceful and as far-reaching in its effect on the country as the Revolution of 1863, which imposed ministerial government on England. In many respects the parallel is close enough. Most of the old embolisms are meaningless. Well may James L. Beck, the Gamaliel of the Constitution, suggest that that document be printed with a black border. That is why Roosevelt's election to the Presidency is history of the first importance. That is why James M. Curley's part in that election is well worth recording.

SEVEN COUSINS CONTEST WILL OF NELLIE CARTER

SAMUEL DAVIS WILLIAM W. DAVIS G. GRANT CARTER

ATTY. BUSHNELL MRS. ALBERT M. BARNES MRS. ADELE COVERLY MRS. MABEL PHILLIPS EVERETT M. CARTER

Here are seven of the 10 cousins of the late Nellie Carter who are contesting her will disposing of her $100,000 estate. Nellie Carter died last January. Ten cousins were given $5000 each in the last will and testament. They gathered, discussed the will, were dissatisfied and planned action that would break the will. The case is now on in Suffolk Court. The will stipulated that any of the cousins who contested the will would be automatically cut off. Despite this they are pushing the contest. They claim the dead woman was of sound mind. Robert Bushnell, at left, attorney for the group, is chatting with Mabel Phillips, Beverly; Samuel Davis, Cambridge; William W. Davis, Cambridge; G. Grant Carter, Haverhill; and Everett M. Carter, Leominster. (Boston American photo.)

REAL AND REEL HOLLYWOOD WHERE STARS PLAY ALL DAY

GLENDIA FARRELL
VILLAIN AND BLONDE HEROINE GET FRIENDLY.
In Hollywood it takes no argument to convince you that all the world's a stage. So colorful are the stars, even off location, that you have to look for the cameras to know if you are on a set or not. But when you see villainous George Raft chatting with blonde Glenda Farrell, you may be sure it's real—not reel. Movie villains never ride girls' bicycles under the klieg lights. It just wouldn't look right. (International News Photos.)

CLEM PEOPLES
"WHY DON'T YOU COME UP SOME TIME?"
That's what Chief Jaeger Clem Peoples of Los Angeles said to Mae West and she took him up on it. They're taking a prep at the "show-up box." Maybe it will give Mae an idea for her next picture of the Naughty Nineties—the Police Gazette says.

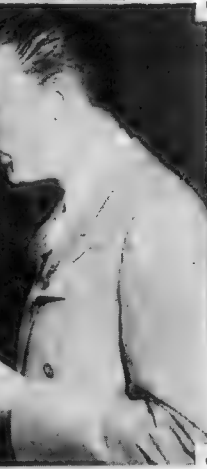

BACK?
You may be interested in Lilyan Tashman's black cotton apron—that's all it is—but the problem for us is whether a velvet back is prettier than a shapely leg. We tried a con. It stood on end.

LILYAN TASHMAN

LEG?
Lilyan made this simple yet very fetching appearance at Malibu Beach—one place where stars would rather play than before a camera. And it shows how very little is really needed to make a hit along the surf.

HEATHER ANGEL
AND THEN THERE ARE THOSE PARTIES!
Ever notice that our Louella Parsons always tells you about ever so many parties? Just like you, the movie people like 'em. Heather Angel, England's gift to California's Hilly Way, and Warren William had a big time when Allen Nowbray's baby celebrated its first birthday. But when the cameramen found them, they had taken "time out" for an olive.

HAPPY YOUNGSTERS ON THEIR DAY OF DAYS

A long auto ride, horns, caps, flags, noise-makers and, best of all, plenty of eats topped off by ice cream, lollipops and tonic. More than 2000 crippled, orphaned and undernourished youngsters had their day of days for the year today, when the 25th annual outing of the Boston Auto Dealers Association

7000 CHILDREN HAVE OUTING

Somewhere in that part of Paradise reserved for those who loved little children, the late Chester I. Campbell is smiling today. The annual outing for 7000 Boston children from the crowded city streets, who would never have an outing, but for the late governor's council and business men, is taking place at Lake Pearl, Wrentham, Penn. 14 minutes, churches, settlement houses and hospitals, a fleet of 500 automobiles and buses, loaded with happy youngsters headed this morning for Wrentham and "a day in the country." For 23 years, Chester I. Campbell managed this affair himself. It is still being conducted by the Boston Retail Automobile Dealers Association, with Albert C. Kist, of the Chester I. Campbell Co. in charge. For most of the children, it is a day almost bigger than Christmas. Many of the little boys and girls are crippled or have other unfortunate conditions. They gave some of them the only complete cure of the year. Many of them have never seen glass and side lights or heard horns or a car. They rode the merry-go-round, they swim, they ride the ponies. Lake Pearl is theirs for the day, and the management says it is the happiest and best natured bunch they have all year. Each youngster has a flag, a horn and a paper cap. At noon, they eat. A regular picnic meal, topped off with ice cream and cake.

"BON VOYAGE" IS BOSTON'S FAREWELL TO THE CURLEYS

GEORGE CURLEY FRANCIS CURLEY MARY CURLEY PAUL CURLEY
Mayor James M. Curley and his family snapped as they left on New York boat last evening to sail from that port today for a six-week tour of Europe. More than 200 friends and city officials gathered at the pier to bid them bon voyage in the name of all Bostonians. Accompanying the mayor were his sons, George, Francis, Paul and Leo, his daughter, Miss Mary Curley, and J. Walter Quinn. They will be home July 27. (Boston American photo.)

Warns of Spread of Tape Worm

John R. Kilpatrick
To Head N. Y. Garden
If Carey Steps Out
Johnston Is on Job
Defies His Enemies
"Boy Bandit" Talks

By JACK CONWAY

John R. Kilpatrick, former Yale end, will be named president of the New York Garden in the event William F. Carey resigns that position following the Sharkey-Carnera bout on June 29.

Tack Hardwick, one of the directors of the Boston Garden, and Dick Dunn, former assistant to Tex Rickard and later general manager of the Boston Garden, have each been mentioned as successors to Carey. Hardwick and Dunn are capable executives, but neither of them will get the Garden post, Kilpatrick already has the job in his lap.

Carey will not give up all his interest in the Garden in the event he resigns as president. He may be named chairman of the board. He will at least remain as a director.

Dick Hoyt and Carey control the majority of the Garden stock. Hoyt has stood by Carey, and I am certain any change that may be made in the lineup of executives will be done with the sanction of Carey.

I talked with Kilpatrick in the New York Garden last week. He has been named vice-president of the Garden. Carey has had Kilpatrick present at all important conferences. He wants the former Yale football hero to be prepared to take over his duties when the time comes for him to do so.

Kilpatrick was formerly a Garden director. It is felt that on account of his splendid athletic background he would be the right man to head the Garden.

"The last time I saw you," I told Kilpatrick, "you were playing end for Yale against Harvard in the Stadium. 'We won that game,' said Kilpatrick good naturedly. 'Ted Coy was on that Yale team with me. We had to play hard football to win. Ham Fish, who captained the Harvard team that year, was a tall, powerful fellow, and used to take short forward passes out of the clouds.'"

"I can remember you dashing down the field and knocking the Harvard backs cold with a single driving tackle," I remarked.

"I had plenty of weight in those days as now," said Fitzpatrick. "I weighed a bit over 190 pounds. I think ends should be big men. Small men can get down the field more quickly, but they are not so certain to drop a back who is trying to run the ball back. Yale always went in for big ends."

Johnston Carries On in Front Line Trenches
I found Jimmy Johnston still carrying on in the Garden's front line trenches. He has the title of "director of boxing."

"The boys have been firing me out of this office for six months," said the Boy Bandit, "but I am still very much on the job. I even have been given some new furniture. Do you know anybody who could have done a better job as matchmaker than I have done? Didn't I force Schmeling to fight Sharkey last year? Then when Schmeling jumped with Dempsey for the Baer bout, didn't I build up Carnera as an opponent for Sharkey?"

"They say Dempsey is a great promoter because he drew $200,000 with Schmeling and Baer. Didn't I take Sharkey and Walker over to Brooklyn two years ago with the Milk Fund and draw $232,000 in a ball park you needed a guide to find? Then I came back and drew $130,000 with Sharkey and Carnera? The reason I remain on this job is because I don't care if I lose it. I always can step out as an independent promoter and make $25,000 to $50,000 a year."

"Dempsey didn't make the Schmeling-Baer bout. Billy McCarney handed him that one on a platter. McCarney was out to get control of the heavyweight situation. He ended up by getting Schmeling knocked out."

"When Baer stiffened the Dutchman, I was so happy I tossed a new straw lid into the ring. I had to go out and buy myself another bonnet. I went into Baer's dressing room and congratulated the Californian. I told him when he stopped Schmeling he also leveled a great many things for me. I do not believe I ever would have had any trouble with Joe Jacobs if it hadn't been for the influence McCarney has over him."

"They have been trying to knock off Jimmy Johnston as a manager of boxers and promoter for years, but I shall continue doing business. And will always have an office near Times sq."

Max Brush has been Johnston's most recent sponsor. Brush made millions selling the market short in recent years. He is now buying stocks again.

Johnston did well even before he had the backing of Matt Grady, Jimmy Walker and James A. Farley. Jimmy enjoys a fight better than anything else. In fact, I believe the fellow would not be happy unless he was in some kind of a scrap. I have known Johnston to intentionally start a jam with some prominent person when things were going along too quietly.

Random Shots at the Target
I shall hop out to the Country Club at Brookline this afternoon to take a peek at the opening day of racing of the Eastern Horse Club's meeting. . . . The best of the jumpers will appear in action. . . . Charley (Red) Kane, assistant to Bill Delaney at Braves Field, died suddenly. . . . Red entered the concession business with Harry Stevens in New York, and came to Boston in 1911. . . . He was liked by all persons who came in contact with him. . . . Leo Howley tells me that Brother Dan is doing very well with the Toronto baseball club. . . . The team has played to $5,000. . . . Dan recently told his players during a fight talk that anybody who had steady drinking would be plastered with a $500 fine. . . . Tommy Daly, former boxer who has trained ball clubs for Howley for years, remarked that in the event he received a $200 fine that the club would have to compromise with a $10 settlement. . . . The selection of Harold Janvris as freshman baseball coach at Harvard was a popular one.

FLEET FIELDS

SIX-RACE

E.H.C. MEET

LIST TODAY

By GEORGE W. GRIMM

The flashiest field of thoroughbreds ever assembled in this section of the East, runners and jumpers, was ready to compete in the 43rd annual race meeting at The Country Club, Brookline, today under the auspices of the Eastern Horse Club.

Today was to see the first day of trials and spills in the annual meet—a three-day affair. Again we gathered the horses with performers at the Country Club and on Monday the pageantry is transported to Raceland, in Framingham.

SIX RACES CARD
Six races make up today's program: four steeplechase events and two over the flat, and the most horses of both this country and from abroad sought the generous purses.

The feature of the day was the National Hunt Cup, about three miles for a purse of $1500. Casvoge was the early favorite in this, although favorites in this sport mean little.

Another favorite was entered Flatbush, owned by Mrs. Thomas H. Somerville and a son of Max O'Neil.

Second in importance, the Chambliss Memorial, a steeplechase race of two miles, was carded for a $700 purse. Edou the first seemed to be the choice, but Citron, from France, and Naylor, were worthy of consideration.

QUADRI FAVORIT
Opening the meet was the Metropolitan Driving Club, a mile and a sixteenth for three-year-olds and not for a purse of $500, with 4 to 1 odds.

I had Post seemed to be the pick to win the Metropolitan race, a four-year-old race of six furlongs for $500 as the prize. In the fifth event, the Chestnut Hill Horse show, Baward Tuckerman up on his high heels, held the favorite's ranking. The sixth event, the Norfolk Hunt Club, drew a big field with the result a tossup.

In all 133 horses were nominated for the six races, about 100 were to see action when the scratches were made. The first event was down to start at exactly at 2:30 p. m.

JOE HUMPHRIES IMPROVING
Fair Haven, N. J., June 15 (AP)—Joe Humphries, veteran fight promoter, who has been paralyzed in an automobile accident, showed further improvement today, and his physical and financial condition would probably again be heard at some time in the future.

Humphries was stricken early in 1914, after returning to his home in Fair Haven, N. J., from the Yankee Stadium. The stroke, diagnosed as a light stroke of age, was used by hardening of the arteries.

Only his almost total paralysis, and he called for several months before he was able to move. He had been making a recovery, but it was eventually able to return to his familiar surroundings. It was just a question of his being more careful in the future.

McLarney Turned Loose
New York, June 15 (IN)—Art McLarney, outfielder from the Pacific Coast, today was a free agent. He was given his unconditional release by the New York Giants.
